Dear Colleagues,

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to the Second Annual Symposium on Medieval and Renaissance Studies. And for those of you who joined us last year, welcome back!

As you might imagine, putting a new annual conference on the map of medieval and early modern studies is a major undertaking and a bit of a risk. That’s why we were immensely gratified to see the Symposium begin so strongly last year. And the continued enthusiasm for the event from all quarters proves that last year was no fluke. The Annual Symposium is here to stay, and we could not be happier about it.

The purpose of the Symposium is simple: to provide a convenient summer venue in North America for scholars in all disciplines to present papers, organize sessions, participate in roundtables, and engage in interdisciplinary discussion. The promotion of serious scholarly investigation into the medieval and early modern worlds will remain at the heart of this Symposium. It is also our hope that by bringing together specialists across what are often opaque chronological boundaries, new insights into historical dynamics and trends can be uncovered and explored. Our guiding principle is a programmatic flexibility that puts excellence in scholarship ahead of all other concerns.

This year we have a wide variety of excellent papers and presentations across more than sixty sessions. The Alfonso VIII Conference, which rotates between St Louis and Madrid, is also taking place in conjunction with the Symposium. We are privileged also to have plenary lectures by John W. Baldwin of Johns Hopkins University and Robert Hillenbrand of the University of Edinburgh.

While attending the Symposium I cordially invite you to use the Pius XII Library as well as the Vatican Film Library and rare book and manuscript collections. We are blessed with extraordinary resources for medieval and early modern studies here at Saint Louis University – resources that we are eager to share. This year we have extended the availability for on-campus housing beyond the period of the conference for those who would like to remain and conduct research.

Once again, I am extremely grateful to all those who have made this conference possible. More than a hundred faculty and graduate students across Saint Louis University work together to make the Annual Symposium a success. The members of the Advisory Board (listed in the program) deserve special thanks for their insights at the beginning of the project and their help all along the way. I am particularly grateful to Dean Michael Barber, S.J. and Associate Dean Donna Lavoie of the College of Arts and Sciences. Thomas J. Finan, the Associate Director of the CMRS, is also instrumental in the planning and execution of the Symposium. As always, Teresa Harvey in the CMRS is the brains behind all conference logistics. Finally, I am thankful to my graduate assistant, Matthew Parker, who masterminds the “face” of the Symposium, including the excellent website, Facebook page, Twitter feed, and app. His work has made the Symposium a real citizen of the twenty-first century.

Because this is still a new conference, the organizers are eager to hear your comments, criticisms, and suggestions for the future. We are committed to making each Annual Symposium better than the last. With you help we can do just that.

With all best wishes,

Research at the Symposium

Attendees are invited to combine their time in Saint Louis with research in the extensive collections of Saint Louis University’s Pius XII Memorial Library. A picture ID is required to gain access. In addition to the regular collections, attendees may also wish to take advantage of the Saint Louis University Libraries Special Collections, whose Knights of Columbus Vatican Film Library contains approximately 40,000 medieval and Renaissance manuscripts-on-microfilm (principally from the Biblioteca Apostolica Vaticana) and offers one of the most extensive reference collections for manuscript studies in the country. Rare Books in Special Collections holds about 30,000 volumes and is particularly strong in philosophy, theology, and Church history.

Special Collections is regularly open Monday–Friday, 9am–5pm, however, the Vatican Film Library will be open on the Saturday of the Symposium to accommodate researchers. Because space may be limited in the reading rooms during the Symposium, those who wish to consult manuscripts-on-microfilm or rare books are encouraged to contact the Vatican Film Library (vfl@slu.edu) or the Rare Books Librarian (jlowe3@slu.edu) in advance of their arrival.

The nation’s tallest monument at 630 feet, the Gateway Arch has beckoned visitors for more than 40 years with its iconic, awe-inspiring shape. The vision of renowned architect Eero Saarinen, the Gateway Arch commemorates Thomas Jefferson and St. Louis’ role in the westward expansion of the United States. A visit to St. Louis isn’t complete without standing at its base and playing professional photographer, and the view from the outside is only half of the experience.

The Missouri History Museum has been active in the St. Louis community since 1866. Founding members created the organization “for the purpose of saving from oblivion the early history of the city and state.” Exhibits on the explorers Lewis & Clark and the aviator Charles Lindbergh, as well as a detailed display of the 1904 World’s Fair, are among the highlights of the museum’s many offerings. The museum is located in beautiful Forest Park and admission is free to all.
The Saint Louis Art Museum was founded in 1879. This Museum’s comprehensive collections bear witness to the inspirational and educational goals to which its founder aspired and the moral and democratic imperatives he embraced. The famed statue of King Louis IX, an iconic image associated with the city, is located in front of the museum’s entrance. Housed in Cass Gilbert’s Palace of Fine Arts from the 1904 World’s Fair, the museum sits in Forest Park and admission is free.

Forest Park, officially opened to the public on June 24, 1876, is one of the largest urban parks in the United States. At 1,293 acres, it is approximately 500 acres larger than Central Park in New York. In 1904, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, The St. Louis World’s Fair, drew more than 20 million visitors from around the world to Forest Park.

The St. Louis Zoo is home to more than 18,000 exotic animals, many of them rare and endangered. These 700 species represent the major continents and biomes of the world. Regularly ranked as one of the country’s top ten zoos, the St. Louis Zoo has made every effort to house their animals in their natural habitats. Set in the rolling hills, lakes and glades of Forest Park, the Saint Louis Zoo is always a great place to be, and admission is completely free.
Founded in 1859, the Missouri Botanical Garden is the nation’s oldest botanical garden in continuous operation and a National Historic Landmark. The Garden is a center for botanical research and science education, as well as an oasis in the city of St. Louis. The Garden offers 79 acres of beautiful horticultural display, including a 14-acre Japanese strolling garden, an English Woodland Garden, a geodesic dome housing a fully tropical micro-environment, Henry Shaw’s original 1850 estate home, and one of the world’s largest collections of rare and endangered orchids.

The remains of the most sophisticated prehistoric native civilization north of Mexico are preserved at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. Within the 2,200-acre tract, located a few miles west of Collinsville, Illinois, lie the archaeological remnants of the central section of the ancient settlement that is today known as Cahokia. In 1982, the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), designated Cahokia Mounds a World Heritage Site for its importance to our understanding of the prehistory of North America. According to archaeological finds, the city of Cahokia was inhabited from about A.D. 700 to 1400. At its peak, from A.D. 1050 to 1200, the city covered nearly six square miles and 10,000 to 20,000 people lived here. Over 120 mounds were built over time, and most of the mounds were enlarged several times. Houses were arranged in rows and around open plazas, and vast agricultural fields lay outside the city.
St. Louis Union Station was once the largest and busiest passenger rail terminal in the world. Union Station first opened in 1894, but ceased operation as an active train terminal in 1978. Union Station reopened in August of 1985 as the largest adaptive re-use project in the United States. The Grand Hall features the original “Allegorical Window,” a hand-made, Tiffany stained glass window. It is truly an architectural gem.

Although workers began clearing ground for the Cathedral Basilica of St. Louis on May 1, 1907, dedication of the Cathedral and its first mass did not take place until October 18, 1914, when the Romanesque superstructure was completed. Consecration of the church took place more than a decade later on June 29, 1926. The church houses the world’s largest collection of hand-tiled mosaics. The collection uses nearly 42,000,000 glass tesserae in over 7,000 colors to cover 83,000 square feet. The installation began construction in 1912 and was completed in 1988. The basilica also houses burial crypts and an outdoor sculpture to promote racial harmony. Visitors of all faiths are welcome.
The history of the “Old Cathedral” of St. Louis and the early history of the City of St. Louis are deeply intertwined. The Old Cathedral Museum, located on the west side of the Cathedral, contains many artifacts and relics from the early days of the Catholic Church in St. Louis and also historical information. When Pierre Laclede Liguest and his First Lieutenant Auguste Chouteau founded the City of St. Louis in 1764, Laclede dedicated the square just west of where he built his home to church and graveyard purposes. The first Catholic Church in St. Louis, built on this site, was a small log house built in 1770. St. Louis IX, King of France, is the Patron Saint of the City and of the Church. In 1776, the mission of St. Louis became a canonical parish and the second log cabin church was built. Its bell, the gift of Lieutenant Governor Don Piernos and enriched by 200 Spanish silver dollars in its casting, can be seen today in the Old Cathedral Museum.

The Fox Theater, first opened in 1929 as a vaudeville theater, is a wonderful example of the opulent architecture characteristic of the early twentieth century, often referred to as Siamese-Byzantine. A few decades after opening, the theater went into steep decline, ultimately closing in the 1970s. The building was restored to its original grandeur in 1982 and has hosted a rich variety of plays, musicals, and concerts ever since.

Founded in 1880, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is recognized internationally as an ensemble of the highest caliber, performing a broad musical repertoire with skill and spirit. The St. Louis Symphony continues to build upon its reputation for musical excellence while maintaining its commitment to local education and community activities. Powell Hall, constructed in 1925, reflects European elegance in the classic warm-hued decor of the Wightman Grand.

There are many exciting animal encounters possible at Grant’s Farm, the 281-acre ancestral home of the Busch family, located just south of the city of St. Louis. The Farm is home to more than 900 animals representing more than 100 different species. Grant’s Farm, operated by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., has been a St. Louis tradition for over five decades. More than 24 million guests have visited this popular family attraction during its history. The Farm takes its name from our 18th President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant. In the 1850s, Grant founded and farmed a portion of the 281 acres. Today, this land is home to Grant’s Farm and is preserved as a living symbol of the Busch family’s love for animals and Anheuser-Busch’s commitment to wildlife conservation and preservation. Admission to Grant’s Farm is free to all ages.

The Center for Digital Humanities has begun work on a web-based application to reconstruct manuscripts which have been “broken,” pieces of which now reside in different places. The application will use digitized images of the individual leaves to create a virtual reconstruction of the manuscript as a whole.

Tradamus, an application for the creation of scholarly digital editions, works with a variety of use cases from music and medicine to poetry and petitions in order to create a full editing suite which allows for collation, annotation, editing, and publishing. Tradamus is also interoperable with T-PEN, our existing application for transcription.

On Monday 30 November 1215 in the Basilica of St John Lateran, Innocent III brought the first assembly of the whole Church since the Council of Chalcedon (451) to a rousing finale by summoning all the delegates to unite in faith and by issuing Ad Liberandum, an encyclical calling for a crusade to liberate the Holy Land. This Council, fourth in the Lateran series but the twelfth ecumenical gathering of the Church in the Western tradition, included the five patriarchs or their representatives, together with more than one thousand bishops, abbots and other dignitaries, both ecclesiastical and secular. At each of the three plenary sessions held on 11, 20 and 30 November respectively, Innocent preached a set-piece sermon whilst, behind the scenes, delegates debated such major issues as who was more worthy to lead the Empire and how to contain the Albigensian heresy.

Eight hundred years on, Lateran IV still stands as the high-water mark of the medieval papacy, its political and ecclesiastical decisions enduring down to the Council of Trent whilst modern historiography has deemed it the most significant papal assembly of the Later Middle Ages. In November 2015, we have a unique opportunity to re-evaluate the role of this Council in the reform of the universal Church. Taking an inter-disciplinary approach, we shall investigate how its decisions affected this intellectual, cultural, social and religious life of the medieval world. We particularly encourage individual papers from disciplines such as art history, theology, canon law, crusade studies, literature and from those who work on relations between Jews and Christians, which we hope will broaden current interpretations of the events of the Council, their subsequent importance and long-term impact. Alternatively, three-paper session proposals on a common theme will also be most welcome.

Papers may be delivered in English, French, German, Italian or Spanish but must be limited to 30 minutes. Abstracts of no more than 200 words with all the necessary contact details should be sent no later than 1 November 2014. Please direct all questions to fourthlateranat800@gmail.com
